SECRETARY OF STATE POORMAN the other evening received a communication from the board of trustees of the Cincinnati college, in which they decline to accept the amendment to that institution's charter, providing for the consolidation with the Cincinnati university.

The communication is signed by William Howard Neff, president, and Alexander H. McGuffey, secretary of the board of trustees. The bill providing for the consolidation was introduced by Senator Cleggman, of Hamilton county, and became a law a few days before the close of the recent session. There is much doubt that the trustees can resist the provisions of this act, as at the time it passed it was regarded as mandatory and not directing. Secretary Poorman will refer the question to the attorneys-general for an opinion as to the exact meaning of the law.

DEEMING'S OLD SWEETHEART.

She is in the Witness Box—A Fellow Traveler Testifies.

MELBOURNE, April 30.—The trial of Frederick Bailey Deeming, alias Williams, for the murder of his wife at Windsor, a suburb of Melbourne, was continued in the central criminal court here Friday. The prisoner was silent and downcast. Several witnesses were called by the prosecution and they all testified to quarrels that had occurred between Deeming and his wife while they were living at Windsor.

The most interesting witness, however, was Miss Kate Rounsvell, the young lady to whom Deeming, who had then assumed the name of Swanston, was engaged to be married, and who was upon the point of joining him in the Southern Cross gold fields when he was arrested. The court room, as on every occasion when Deeming has been arraigned, was crowded.

There has never been a trial in this city that has excited such intense popular interest, and everybody is desirous of once at least gazing upon the prisoner. When Miss Rounsvell went into the witness box the audience leaned forward in expectancy to hear her every word. She narrated the story of how she met Deeming on a steamer bound for Sydney, and how finally she accepted the proposal of marriage he made to her, all of which has been before reported in these dispatches.

Throughout her evidence Miss Rounsvell spoke of Deeming politely and respectfully. She declared that Deeming's manner toward her had always been courteous and kind.

A number of ordinary love letters written to her by Deeming were then handed to her for identification, and Mr. Elmscheldt, who accompanied Deeming at the time he was arrested from Perth, West Australia, to Melbourne, was the next witness called. He was subjected to a severe cross-examination, counsel for the prisoner trying to elicit from him whether Deeming had displayed any signs of insanity on the voyage. The witness stated, however, that in his opinion Deeming was perfectly sane, and his testimony was in no wise shaken by the efforts of Deeming's counsel.
